

Health Care in 2018: What's Next?

Improve care for patients, improve the health of populations and reduce per capita health care costs — those are the goals of the Triple Aim, the landmark article published in 2008 to reform the U.S. health care system. A decade later, how are we doing as a nation and a region? And what does the future of health care look like? Those are the questions experts will answer during this all-day forum.

Friday, Oct. 26
8:30 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Templeton Landing
2 Templeton Terrace
Buffalo, NY 14202

KEYNOTE

Nancy H. Nielsen, MD, PhD

Senior Associate Dean for Health
Policy and Clinical Professor

University at Buffalo Jacobs School of Medicine and Biomedical Sciences

MODERATOR

Larry Zielinski

Executive in Residence for Health Care Administration

University at Buffalo
School of Management

EXPERT DISCUSSIONS

During four panel discussions, leaders from the following organizations will share their insights:

- Health systems: Catholic Health, Kaleida Health and Roswell Park Comprehensive Cancer Center.
- Health plans: HealthNow, Independent Health and Univera Healthcare.
- Physicians: Buffalo Medical Group, Jericho Road Community Health Center and UBMD Family Medicine.
- Community advocates: African-American Health Disparities Task Force, Erie County Department of Senior Services and Population Health Collaborative.

Advance registration required at tripleaim.eventzilla.net

PRESENTED BY

 University at Buffalo
School of Management

American College of Healthcare Executives
for leaders who care®